Three Peculiarities
The superior qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla are secured by three peculiarities, viz:
First.—The combination of remedial agents used.
Second.—The proportion in which they are mixed.
Third.—The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.
These are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla and are unlike any other. The result of these peculiarities is a medicine of unusual strength which effects cures hitherto unknown. A trial, or even a glance at the article, inspires confidence, because it bears unquestionable indication of a thorough understanding on the part of those who originated it.

Unknown To Others
My little girl was afflicted with scrofula. So violent was the disease, that her neck had been lanced ten times. At the time she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there was a very large bunch on her face. This we expected to open with the lancet, but to our surprise the bunch began to shrink and now it has entirely disappeared. Baby is in good flesh, sores all gone, her appetite is good, and she seems as well as any child. William H. Connet, Lyme Centre, N. H.

The Ship Rainier

THE SHIP'S CREW LEFT ON A SMALL ISLAND 2,500 MILES FROM THE MAINLAND—CAPT. MORRISON ENTERTAINED BY THE KING OF THE ISLAND—THE NATIVES PEACEABLE AND KIND—A LAND OF COCOANUTS AND BREADFRUIT.

(Bath Times)

Wednesday, Mrs. Capt S. H. Morrison received a letter from her husband, who commanded the ship Rainier, which was reported lost a short time ago in the Pacific Ocean. The letter was dated January 9th, six days after the vessel struck the reef.

The following facts were related this morning by Mrs. Morrison to the Local: The Rainier sailed for Philadelphia with a cargo of oil for Japan. Everything went on smoothly until the first of January, when the weather became very thick. During the day of January 3d a wind sprung up. The lookout on the forecastle deck at 9 30 sang out "Breakers ahead" and before anything could be done the ship was surrounded by breakers and had struck. During the night every possible thing was done to get the ship off, but the wind increased to a gale. The ship worked dreadfully during the night. There was no land in sight.

The next morning preparations were made to leave the ship, but the surf was so high and dangerous it was impossible to break through in the ship's boats. During the morning a boat was seen coming towards the ship with a crew of men. At first sight it was feared they might be cannibals, but when they came within hailing distance it was discovered that they could speak English. They came on board and informed Capt. Morrison that there was an island, which was inhabited, within fifteen miles from the ship and offered to take them to the island in their boats. Their offer was accepted and such valuables as could be taken, were with the people on the ship, taken to the island.

On arriving at the island it was found to be Ujilang Island, one of the Marshall group. There are fifty inhabitants on the island, governed by a king. The natives are very generous and kind to the shipwrecked and do everything for their comfort. Some of them can speak English which they have learned from the traders which come to the island, but they cannot tell how often the traders come, or when they were there last.

The island is three miles long, and is 2,500 miles from the nearest mainland, the nearest land is the Philippine Islands. On the fourth day after their arrival at the island, Captain Morrison sent the second officer and four seamen in a boat, to see if they could possibly obtain assistance by running across a ship or steamer. The boat was sighted by the British bark [illegible] and taken to Saigon, when news was immediately telegraphed.

The letter which was received by Mrs. Morrison yesterday was sent in this boat. At the time the letter was written everybody was in good health. Mrs. [illegible]

[illegible]

Punch has had something to say against the practice of wearing red veils. It is one that is getting to be quite universal in New York. It is adopted even by florid persons, but to such as have high color, the red veil, either of grenadine or dotted net, is a singular choice indeed, and most inappropriate. Pale faces are perhaps improved by the glow which these coverings impart, but even when this advantage is gained, the color of the veil is too often unfriendly to its surroundings and fails to harmonize with bonnet or hat of which it forms a part, or of the shoulder coverings with which it is placed in juxtaposition. The [illegible] chenille-spotted veil is objectionable all round, but the great tint, provided only it is not inharmonious with the dress, is decidedly becoming to a face whose ensign is the lily instead of the rose.

Indiana veiling, a lovely soft material, closely resembling India cashmere, is the most popular of the several grades and qualities of veilings shown this season. It is exquisitely fine, and drapes most gracefully. It is self-colored in all fashionable shades, light or dark, and is most effective when its garniture consists of waves of creamy lace. Young ladies, however, the coming summer will use the delicate shades, such as dove, fawn, pale olive, mauve, almond, and the like, for church and afternoon dress. In this case the skirts are kilted, the long apron overskirt, simply finished with a broad hem, and the drapings held by Ottoman ribbons at each side; the bodice alone being trimmed with plaitings of lace about the neck and sleeves.

A black silk skirt covered with black lace flounces, is a most useful adjunct to the wardrobe of any lady who visits much and has only a limited dress allowance. Such a skirt can be varied in [illegible]

Republican District Convention.

The Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District of Maine, composed of the Counties of Penobscot, Piscataquis, Aroostook and Washington, are requested to send delegates to a Convention to be held at the City Hall in Bangor, on Tuesday, April [illegible] 1884, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Representative from this District to the Forty-ninth Congress of the United States, and of nominating a candidate for Presidential Elector and of selecting two delegates and two alternate delegates to the Republican National Convention to be held at Chicago, Illinois, Tuesday, June 3d, 1884, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before said Convention.

Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for every seventy-five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1882, one delegate, and for each fraction of forty votes, one delegate.

Bangor, Me., March 1[illegible], 1884.

The opinion prevails in Washington that Mr. Morrison will lack the requisite votes to call up his tariff bill in the House Tuesday.

The Cincinnati Enquirer sees danger ahead and [illegible] to guard as much as possible against the Republican tidal wave that will sweep Ohio this fall, pleads with the Legislature to make every concession demanded by the rumsellers.

The two questions that seem to give the Democrats the most trouble is to determine how to get around the tariff question with the loss of as few votes as possible and to find out whether or not S. J. Tilden is going to be a candidate in the coming election.

One would like to see the names of the members of the New Hampshire Democratic State Committee who approved of the action of the Carlisle-Morrison element in the House just to see if in the list are any of the Democrats who went to Washington in 1883 to urge Democratic Congressmen not to oppose the change in the [illegible] desired by the knit goods interest.—Boston Journal.

News from different portions of the country shows that Mr. Blaine was never so popular with the masses as he is to-day. The Republican party is in excellent condition for the coming contest, but if Mr. Blaine is the standard bearer success is doubly sure. "Blaine of Maine" would be a rallying cry that would arouse irresistible enthusiasm from the Pine Tree State to the Pacific Slope.

The candidacy of Senator Logan for the Presidency has been mentioned as an indication of how much an American dare [illegible]. The candidacy of Mr. Blaine [illegible] the height of political audacity and the depth of Yankee persistence.—Boston Herald.

The above is a highly important opinion. If anything published in the columns of the Herald had any effect whatever the malignant manner in which it has been attacked Mr. Blaine would simply strengthen him in the estimation of the intelligent voters of this country.

The free trade wing of the Democracy continues to encounter the most determined opposition to their famous policy, says the Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal. A number of rice planters from South Carolina and Georgia are here to aid in defeating the consideration of the Morrison tariff bill. They represent that they can scarcely maintain their industry with the protection now afforded by the tariff, and should the Morrison bill be passed they claim that it will absolutely ruin the rice industry of the South. [illegible] are willing upon their representatives to use all means in their power to defeat the consideration of the Morrison [illegible]. They assert that if the Democratic [illegible] upon passing this measure [illegible] will in future vote and work with the Republicans. In spite of any social ostracism that may be threatened, say it is not a case of sentiment but of business this time, and they cannot afford to lose their money for the sake of retaining their social standing.

The Choice of Pennsylvania

[New York Tribune.]

The unanimity of feeling among the Republicans of Pennsylvania in favor of the nomination of Mr. Blaine is remarkable. Sixty-one counties have already chosen delegates to the State Convention which meets at Harrisburg on Wednesday next. Fifty counties instructed their representatives to vote in favor of Mr. Blaine, and there are uninstructed delegates who will vote the same way. One half if not more of the delegates from Philadelphia are for Mr. Blaine. In Allegheny County the majority of the delegates are instructed for him with the probability of an addition to the number of his supporters when the contests from that county are settled. There have been forty delegates chosen from the Senate districts, of which number twenty-eight have been instructed for Mr. Blaine.

There are only six small counties yet to elect representatives, and it is probable that all of them will declare for Mr. Blaine. Hence it is as certain as any political event well can be that the delegates-at-large from Pennsylvania will all be supporters of Mr. Blaine. Twenty of the twenty-two district delegates to Chicago already chosen are instructed for him. It is clear, therefore, that Pennsylvania will be practically unanimous for Mr. Blaine, and that in spite of the opposition of Federal officials and the lieutenants of Mr. Cameron.

There is nothing more noteworthy in recent political events than the manner in which the Republican voters in that State have taken matters into their own hands. In the XIVth Congressional District, in which Senator Cameron resides, the delegates to Chicago were not only instructed for Mr. Blaine but the convention was so suspicious of foul play that it would not deliver the credentials until the delegates had signed a written pledge to carry out the instructions. In many other counties where the people have been betrayed in past years similar pledges were required. But notwithstanding the care that has been taken in many cases to prevent misrepresentation, Congressman Bayne and other supporters of Mr. Blaine sound a note of warning that should arrest attention throughout the State. They assert that a systematic effort is being made by the opponents of Mr. Blaine to secure control of the organization of the State Convention. For this purpose men, it is said, have declared themselves for Blaine with the purpose of betraying their constituents. It is not proposed by Mr. Cameron's lieutenants to attempt to defeat the choice of delegates-at-large who will vote at Chicago for Mr. Blaine. In the light of the remarkable expression of opinion in his favor that would be ridiculous. But an effort is to be made to retain control of the party organization, to elect friends of Mr. Cameron as officers of the convention, to influence contests, and in other ways to run counter to the expressed will of the people.

It can hardly be possible that such effort will succeed. But the Republicans of Pennsylvania have been so often [illegible] that it is only natural that they should look with concern upon such an attempt at this time. High-minded Republicans, whether in favor of Mr. Blaine or not, can only regard with indignation the efforts of the Cameron lieutenants in Pennsylvania to [illegible] the [illegible] to stir up strife. So far the canvass in that State has been harmonious and [illegible] the convention promises to be a representative one, and it is to be hoped that there will be no betrayal of the people.

The New Post Office Building

The first mail brought to this place by the government was in 1791. The [illegible] of the present city was then a part of Hallowell. Seven years before that time Daniel Knowles forwarded a petition signed by citizens for a mail to Hallowell. All that was asked for was a mail once a week to Portland and back, [illegible] [illegible] might be accomplished [illegible] for about two hundred dollars a year. It was in 1787 [illegible] 1791 was the mail established. [illegible] was the first postmaster. He lived and [illegible] in the [illegible] on Barton House [illegible] which today where [illegible] building now stands. He kept the post office in the rear of [illegible] part of the building. These facts about the first post office in what is now Bangor [illegible] are found in North's History of the city.

After the [illegible] of ninety years [illegible] receipt of the first mail, Congress has passed a bill for a public building. [illegible] post office to [illegible]. The building has been needed [illegible] years. The business of the office [illegible] far outgrown its accommodations. Postmaster Manley, soon after his appointment to office, moved vigorously for the erection of a new post office, and to his unresting and efficient labors is [illegible] largely indebted for the success which has been achieved. At the last session of Congress a bill in favor of the erection of the building was favorably reported to the House, but failed to receive consideration.

At the present session a bill was presented in the Senate by Mr. Hale, and shortly after received a passage by that body. Mr. Frye rendered valuable assistance in pushing it through the Senate. The bill was in his charge when final action was taken. In the House, Mr. Milliken, who is a member of the Public Building Committee early reported the bill favorably from his committee, and secured [illegible] good position for it upon the calendar. [illegible] his fidelity, ability and vigilance [illegible] of the bill, and his constituents [illegible] chiefly indebted for its passage [illegible] House. With the [illegible] which the [illegible] in tariff bill has made of the [illegible] of the House it required [illegible] sagacity and push to get anything through that body.

But the work is done, and well done, thanks to all engaged in it. The public service requires the building. The Government is abundantly able to build it. [illegible] citizens of Augusta [illegible] especially grateful to those who [illegible] burden of securing it [illegible]. Postmaster Manley has good cause for [illegible] at the happy consummation [illegible] Senators and our Representatives [illegible] district have added to the esteem in which they are held in this community by their labors in behalf of the building.

Presidential Outlook

VIEWS OF CHAIRMAN SABIN OF THE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE — THE [illegible] UNITED AND HOPEFUL — OHIO AND NEW YORK SURE FOR WHOEVER IS NOMINATED.

Senator Dwight M. Sabin of Minnesota, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who is making a brief visit to Boston, was called upon by a representative of the Traveller for the purpose of ascertaining his views regarding the outlook for the coming Presidential campaign.

Senator Sabin received the Traveller representative very courteously, and in response to a general question as to the outlook, said that for sixteen years he did not believe it had been so favorable for Republican success as at present. "A most remarkable change," said he, "has taken place during the last six months. The Democratic House has done nothing to commend itself to the country. It has only evinced an incapacity, through its divisions and factional strifes, to accomplish any practical legislation, but it has also shown a lack of disposition to really do anything. No measure of public importance has yet passed the House, and there is little prospect for any judicious legislation. On the other hand the Republican Senate has addressed itself earnestly to the work before it, thereby commending itself and the Republican party to the voters of the country.

Among the measures of large public importance which have passed the Senate are the Electoral Count bill, the Banking bill, the Education bill, and that providing for at least a shadow of a navy. While the House, thus far, has simply done nothing. The contrast between the policies of the two parties thus exhibited has been so marked that it has had great influence on the voters of the country at large, and of itself, in my opinion, would insure Republican success in November next. The breach in the Democratic party on the tariff question is an irreconcilable one. Still another element that will contribute to Republican success is the fact that we are near the time for the meeting of the convention, and there is as yet no organized boom for any one candidate."

T. R. You regard the outlook for the convention as hopeful then?

Senator Sabin—I certainly do. I do not think there has ever been a time in the history of the party when there was more evident determination to secure the best nomination regardless of personal preferences, and there will probably be fewer pledged or instructed delegates in the convention than in any previous one of the party.

T. R. Do you think there is any real basis for the talk that is current in some portions of the Republican press, that certain men cannot carry certain States; say, for instance, the statement that is frequently made that Arthur cannot, if nominated, carry Ohio, or Blaine, New York?

Senator Sabin—Now in regard to this it would not become me to express an opinion respecting either the strength of President Arthur or Mr. Blaine, or in fact any other candidate that has been named. A good many interviews with me have been published that never occurred, and a good many things put into my mouth by you newspaper men that I never said. I feel very kindly, for instance, towards President Arthur, regarding his administration as a successful one, but it is not my place to discuss the expediency of his renomination. As to New York and Ohio, I will, however, say this, I think the character of the convention and its action in regard to nominations will be such, that both these States may be counted as certain for any candidate the convention may nominate. Neither New York nor Ohio will give its electoral vote to the Democrats after the exhibition of [illegible] incapacity to deal with the most important interest of the country which the Democratic House has given during the present session. The Republican party is going into the campaign with an unbroken front in these States, as well as in others which have not been regarded as pivotal.

T. R.—How about your own State of Minnesota?

Senator Sabin—Minnesota is good for from thirty to forty thousand majority for the Republican candidate, whoever he may be. Fifteen years ago Minnesota was a Democratic State, but the large Scandinavian immigration which has been going on since, has made her solidly Republican.

In closing the interview Senator Sabin expressed the belief that there would be an early adjournment of Congress. Until recently, he had thought the session would be somewhat protracted, but the more [illegible] of the Democratic leaders were beginning to recognize that the longer Congress remained in session the more [illegible] their prospects for November would become, and so there would be an effort to force an early adjournment which would probably be successful.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 22th 1883

Messrs. D. H. BALDWIN & Co.

Gentlemen:—I feel it a duty I owe to you as well as myself to state that I am more than pleased with the [illegible] Fischer Upright Grand Piano [illegible] I purchased from you some time ago. [illegible] I am delighted [illegible] with it. I regard the Fischer Piano as one of the best and sweetest instruments in the world. SCROFULA

Usually develops in early life and is a peculiar morbid condition of the system, usually affecting the glands, often resulting in swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, thickening of the lips, enlarged neck, sore eyes. A scrofulous condition is often hereditary, but bad diet, too free use of fat meats, bad air, want of sunshine and nourishing food will induce it. Some people are troubled with scrofulous swelling of the glands, and with ulcers and kernels, which may cause very little pain; others may have inward scrofula, scrofula of the lungs, scrofula of the spleen, scrofula of the kidneys, and scrofula of the bones. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will drive away any case of scrofula, and not to appear in another place, for their action on the blood and bowels will carry the disease entirely from the body.

FORTY-EIGHTH CONGRESS—First Session

House.

WASHINGTON, April 12 Mr Reagan, of Texas, from the Committee on Commerce, reported back a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for copies of any correspondence now pending with subordinate officers of customs at New York, as to the interpretation and construction of Section 2,754, Revised Statutes, and the civil service law with reference to the preference given in appointments to honorably discharged soldiers and sailors, adopted.

Under the call of committees the following reports were submitted

By Mr Dorsheimer, of New York, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to make bills of lading conclusive evidence in certain cases; House calendar.

By Mr Poland, of Vermont, from the same committee, regulating appeals from the Supreme Court of the Territories and the District of Columbia, House calendar

By Mr Peters, of Kansas, from the Committee on Commerce, to promote the efficiency of the revenue marine service, Committee of the Whole

By Mr Greene, of North Carolina, from the Committee on Agriculture, for the relief of fruit growers and to encourage the cultivation of fruit; Committee of the Whole It allows fruit growers to manufacture brandy from the product of their orchards without payment of tax.

By Mr Skinner, of New York from the Committee on Post-offices and Post-roads granting letter carriers and clerks in first class offices 30 days' leave of absence in each year House calendar

By Mr Lovering, of Massachusetts, from the Committee of Labor, for the [illegible]justment of the accounts of laborers [illegible] under the [illegible] Committee of the Whole

By Mr Kleiner of Indiana from the Committee on Alcoholic Liquor Traffic, adversely to restrict the use of distilled spirits to arts and manufactures; House calendar.

At the conclusion of the call Mr Thompson, of Kentucky, moved to rescind the order under which the House has been considering public building bills and which was adopted on Monday last

The Speaker was clearly of the opinion that the motion was not a privileged one, but as it was a new question he preferred to submit its decision to the House, which determined yeas 77, nays 101, that it was not privileged

Public business was then suspended and the House proceeded to a consideration of the resolutions expression of regret at the death of the late Thomas Herndon, of Alabama After eulogies by Messrs Jones of Alabama, Forney, Herr, Dowd, Cuthbertson, of Texas, Henderson, Herbert, Shelly and Otis, the House, as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, at 3:15 adjourned.

A POPULAR FALLACY.

Many people think that Rheumatism cannot be cured. It is caused by a bad state of the blood which deposits poisonous matter in the joints and muscles, causing lameness, stiffness and swelling of the joints and excruciating pains. Kidney-Wort will certainly effect a cure. It acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, stimulating them to a healthy action, purifies and enriches the blood and eliminates the poison from the system. Go to the nearest druggist, buy Kidney-Wort and be cured. [illegible]

EASTER SUNDAY.

General Observance of the Joyful Festival—The Churches Thronged and Impressive Services—Charming Music and Beautiful Floral Decorations—Numerous Easter Concerts.

Yesterday was Easter and this great religious festival was observed generally among the churches of our city. The day, while not all that could be desired, was fair and the somewhat chilly breeze did not deter people from coming out in throngs, the various houses of worship being almost universally crowded The floral decorations were as a rule profuse and very beautiful, while the music was noticeably fine, the programmes being unusually elaborate and the choirs having devoted more time to preparation than for many years past Below will be found an outline of the services in the various churches

EPISCOPAL

The floral decorations were bountiful and very artistically arranged. The rector, Rev Dr Fiske, officiated and delivered a discourse on the resurrection. The music was a very prominent feature of the service and delighted all in attendance A double quartette, comprising Misses Ross, Leavitt, Brett and Todd and Messrs Morton, Spencer, Dow and Maynard sang very creditably and Mr Geo Boyd presided at the organ The title of Miss Ross' solo was "Lord at all times I will praise Thee" from Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion." It is a chaste and beautiful piece of writing and Miss Ross sang it with full appreciation of its subtle beauty. The following is the musical programme

Prelude
Easter Hymn	Christ the Lord is Risen To day	G. R. B.
		Wilson
Easter Anthem	Christ our Passover is Sacrificed	Dr Chard
Te Deum		Lloyd
Jubilate Deo		Harris
Hymn	Angels Roll the Rock Away	Dr Dykes
Kyrie Eleison		Elvey
Hymn	Jesus Lives no longer now	Dykes
Offertory	[illegible] Solo Miss Ross	Mendelssohn
Sanctus
Communion Hymn
Gloria in excelsis

In the afternoon an interesting children's service was held at which Easter carols were sung An Offertorio solo "Shepherd Sunday Song" was brilliantly executed by Mr A. C. Morton A report was presented by the Superintendent, Mr French and a short address was given by the rector, Rev Dr Fiske

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

The pulpit was tastefully adorned with potted and cut flowers Prominent among the flowers were beautiful Easter lilies At the left of the pulpit was a very fine Easter cross The opening voluntary Offertoire in G by Lefebure Wely, was executed with excellent effect by Miss Swan The services opened with invocation by the pastor-elect, Mr N. H. Harriman and was followed by responsive reading, Isaiah 53, Scripture Selections from Matt 27th and 1 Cor 15th, Hymn "I know that my Redeemer liveth," Prayer, Hymn, "Christ the Lord is risen to-day," Sermon, Text, Luke 24, 34 and Acts 17, 3, "The fact and the necessity of the Resurrection," Prayer; Hymn, "Yes the Redeemer rose;" Benediction; Closing Voluntary, Maestoso in A, Hummel Miss Swan In the evening a praise service was held

HAMMOND STREET

The floral decorations were very fine [illegible] baskets of flower pot plants arranged in easel form and clusters of callas entwined by smilax being among the most noticeable The morning service opened by a Lemmens' "Marche Pontificale" by Miss Berry organist, and was followed by an Easter Anthem, "Hallelujah chorus from "The Mount of Olives," by Beethoven, sung by the full choir Next came reading of XXIII, XXIV Psalms, by the pastor followed with singing by the congregation An eloquent Easter sermon was then delivered by the pastor, Rev. H. L. Griffin, 1st Cor 15 19 20 During the morning service there was a large audience present. The singing was extremely good and gave excellent satisfaction In the evening an Easter concert was given the exercises of which were as follows Organ voluntary, postlude by Whitney; Easter Anthem, by Wilson Mrs. Roberts and Mr Moody, solos, Second quartette and chorus, "Sanctus by Gounod with solo, by Mr P. G. Hunt; Anthem, "All we like sheep," by the school, Prayer, by the pastor, Solo, "Hear us, O [illegible]" Miss Annie Semple; Reading of Scripture, by the Superintendent; [illegible] by the choir (quartette), report, by the Secretary, Mr [illegible] Hopkins, "Come unto Me" [illegible] Quartette, select reading, "East[illegible]" Miss Reen Webster; Chorus [illegible] risen," by the school, Recitation "[illegible] Day," by Jamie Dunning, S[illegible] the juvenile department, Recitation "[illegible] Lilies of Easter," by Master Hart[illegible] "O, the tidings," duet by two [illegible] from the Children's Home, Ch[illegible] [illegible] John L. Crosby then [illegible] school in fitting words app[illegible] the occasion, Quartette and [illegible] Christ be not risen," by the [illegible] member Mc[illegible] by the Apollo [illegible] Recitation, "Christ is risen," M[illegible] Bourne, Singing, "Jesus enth[illegible]" the school; Benediction, by the [illegible] The large audience room [illegible] during the evening service, [illegible] conducted by the Superintendent [illegible] Milton Dagget The singing [illegible] Mr Geo T. Moody, the chor[illegible] Berry presided at the organ, as [illegible] by Miss May Sibley at the [illegible] and accompanied by Ed Adam[illegible] cornet The service was of un[illegible] and was listened to attentively

CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL

Much praise was elicited [illegible] decorations which were abund[illegible] ranged with rare taste [illegible] largely into the decoration [illegible] In graceful festoons [illegible] wreaths, On the right [illegible] bank of foliage plants and [illegible] superb fuchsia. Flowers and [illegible] generously distributed arou[illegible] and a beautiful Easter cross [illegible] conspicuous position in front [illegible] was of a high order and charm[illegible] The selections were [illegible] the way of the Lord," Garret. [illegible] Hymn, "The Saviour has rise[illegible]" and "I know that my Redee[illegible]" Handel. The choir comprise[illegible] M. Cooke, Mrs. Gardiner, Mr. [illegible] and Mr. Thomas, with Mr. [illegible] chorister and Miss H. L. [illegible] at the organ. Prof. John S. [illegible] ducted the service and his [illegible] from the text 1st Cor. 15th [illegible] verse, the subject being [illegible] from the Resurrection [illegible] was one of much ability, a[illegible] ceiving close attention.

In the evening an Easter [illegible] held by the school and the [illegible] rium was packed to overflow[illegible] ing obliged to stand. The [illegible] were of an extremely interesting [illegible] ter, were under the charge of Mr. [illegible] Pearl, the Superintendent The following [illegible] the programme: Organ voluntary, [illegible] Easter anthem selection by choir, [illegible] anthem; reading of the 136th Psalm responsively; singing Easter Bells by school; Prayer by Prof. Sewall; chant, "I am the Resurrection and the Life," by choir; singing, solo by Lulu Haynes with chorus by infant class, Secretary's report; Cavatina, Roff, by Andrews' Orchestra, exercise, "Raising the Cross and Anchoring it to the Bible" with recitations by Myrtie Kimball and Lillie Stetson, singing by school, "Hallelujah He is Risen, reading "The Story Retold," Mabel Haynes selection from Stabat Mater, Andrews' Orchestra, singing by school address by Prof. Sewall, singing solo, Creator Alma, by Rondinella, by Miss Cooke, by request, "Softly rang the Bells of Heaven, by Andrews' Orchestra, closing hymn by school and congregation, benediction The music was very fine, Andrews' Orchestra playing exquisitely and the choir and school both doing fine work Mr Fenton, who had a previous engagement to sing at the Episcopal in the morning sang with the choir, in the concert The address by Prof Sewall was very eloquent and the theme was that the true Easter offering is ourselves

UNIVERSALIST

Rev J. J. Mead, of Augusta occupied the pulpit in the morning, preaching a sermon appropriate to the day, taking his text from 20th chapter of Luke 38th verse "For He is not God of the dead, but of the living" The music was very fine, the regular choir, Messrs Haynes and Roberts, Miss Hodgdon and Miss Sawtelle, rendering an Easter anthem by Stearns "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead" by Muller, and Mr Haynes "The Lord's Prayer," by Fassette, Miss Davenport officiating ably on the organ The floral decorations were elaborate and greatly admired Flowers and foliage plants were displayed profusely and an elegant Easter cross was directly in front of the altar

In the evening an interesting Sunday School concert was held the exercises being conducted by Mr Henry Lord, the Superintendent. The following programme was given: Organ Voluntary Wely by Mrs F. S. Davenport, Anthem, Jubilate Deo, in C, with solo by Miss Hodgdon choir, Singing by the school Responsive service, Prayer by Rev Mr Mead, Solo, "There is a green hill far away," Gounod, by Mr Haynes, Reading of Bible by the Superintendent, Recitation Miss Flora Graves, Reading, Miss May Staples Singing, by the school, Recitation, Miss Fannie Patten Recitation, Harold Hodge Duet, "The Lord my pasture shall prepare," [illegible] Miss Hodgdon and Mr Haynes Recitation four girls' Recitation Madeline Adams Singing by the School, Recitation Miss Prescott Recitation, five little girls, Reading, Miss Hattie Trask, Solo "Ring out, O bells of Easter," Miss Georgie Ham Singing by the School Benediction

FIRST BAPTIST

The floral decorations were very fine and appropriate. Back of the pulpit were the letters "I. H. S.," in evergreen, in handsome characters Flowering plants filled stands on either side, and on the pulpit was an evergreen cross with roses and lilies at its base, and a beautiful colored foliage plant offset it on the opposite side, while on the table in front of the pulpit was a profusion of magnificent callas

The services were as follows

Organ voluntary Miss Stewart, Invocation by the Pastor Easter Anthem, "Thanks be to God," Sudds, choir Reading of Scriptures Romans VI chapter, Prayer, by the pastor Hymn No [illegible] "Yes the Redeemer rose," tune of Lenox choir and congregation Reading of Governor's Fast Day proclamation and announcement of Union services at Second Baptist church, Sermon from text Romans 6-4 "that likeness Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father even so we also should walk in newness of life

The preacher dwelt with pleasure upon the fact that more and more the Christian church was coming to the observance of this glorious day, which for so long a time had been left to observance only by the Catholic and Episcopal churches and the question for all to settle is "how may we best observe the day It is beautiful and fitting to bring a profusion of the best of flowers God's most beautiful creations, and to bring the richest of all of song but that these outward observances would be worthless unless we observed the day in its true spirit, and adopted the surrection of the Saviour as a symbol of regeneration of spirit, and a resolve to walk in a newness of life The discourse was a very able and interesting one and was listened to with the closest attention and interest by the very large congregation present

After prayer by the pastor Mrs Bowler sang with much sweetness the beautiful solo, "I alone the cross must bear," by White The interesting services closed by an organ voluntary postlude in G, by Mendelssohn finely performed by Miss Stewart

SECOND BAPTIST, (COLUMBIA STREET)

The morning service opened with an organ voluntary, Offertoire, by Reed The hymns sung by the Congregation were "Holy, Holy Holy, Lord God Almighty" and "Hail the day that sees Him rise" The Scripture lesson was from 1st Cor 15 1—17 and Acts 1 1—11 The sermon by the pastor, Rev Geo B Ilsley was from the text, Matthew 28, 5 and 6 the subject of the sermon was the proofs of the resurrection of Christ First, the testimony of the angelic visitors at the vacant tomb, second the testimony of the women who early visited the tomb on the resurrection morn, and third the testimony of others to whom Christ appeared on the resurrection day The closing hymn and Doxology was "Praise God from whom all blessings flow" Benediction

In the afternoon an Easter Concert was held, opening with an organ voluntary, Cujus Animam, Stabat Mater, by Rossini, The subject of the Easter service was the power of Christ's Resurrection and service motto, "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection," Phil. 3 10 The exercises consisted of responsive scripture readings and singing by the school, selected poems by the following members: Alice Clark, Ruby Ilsley, Lettie Washburn, Mildred Varney, Annie Brown, Stella Colson, Hattie Rich, Sadie Bunker, Edith Howard and Mrs F. [illegible] Noble, song, "There is a green hill far away," by Allan G. Holt, songs, "Come unto me, when shadows darkly gather" and "Remember me, O mighty one," by the Apollo Quartette, remarks by the pastor.

The decorations at this church were very pretty, and consisted of flowering plants, lilies and other flowers tastefully arranged, one design, an anchor being worthy of special note. A maroon plush banner, 4½ by 6 feet, hung on the wall back of the pulpit, bearing the service motto in large gilt letters. The banner was embroidered with lilies. Both services were largely attended.

FIRST METHODIST.

The music at the morning service was finely given by a chorus choir, Mrs. J. B. Ayer presiding at the organ. Rev. J. W. Day, formerly a member of the First M. E. church in this city, occupied the pulpit and preached a very able sermon, using for his text 2d Cor., 5th chapter 9th verse The reverend gentleman has just closed a very successful pastorate of three years in the Methodist church at Calais Many of the friends who knew him twenty years ago gathered around him at the close of the service to give him a hearty welcome

In the evening the fifty-fifth anniversary of the Sunday School was held and the auditorium was well filled The following programme was carried out Easter Anthem by choir, Scripture reading and recitation of the Apostle's creed, solo by Miss Allen Buckman, responsive readings by the Superintendent and the school, prayer by the pastor, obligato solo by Miss Annie Goldthwait, Secretary's report by Mrs. Buckman, which showed the school, to be in a most prosperous condition, solo, "Where is Heaven?" by Mrs Dr Wasgatt, address by Rev. J. W. Day, chorus, "Anniversary Jubilee," by twenty five little girls, address by Rev. T. Gerrish, singing by the school "Walk in the Light," benediction The exercises were in charge of the Superintendent Mr H. B. Dunbar The election of officers for the ensuing year will take place Fast Day afternoon, at three o'clock

UNION STREET METHODIST

Yesterday was the closing Sunday of the conference year and the exercises were of a very interesting nature The church was handsomely decorated with flowers and the music by the choir was excellent, Mr E. A. Cony officiating as chorister and Miss Berry presiding at the organ There was a sermon in the morning appropriate to Easter and in the evening there was a praise [illegible] service

FREE BAPTIST

The church was made especially inviting by the floral offerings Music appropriate to the occasion was sung by a chorus choir under the direction of Mr I. W. Taylor The sermon was a theme suggested by the day

ST. JOHN'S CATHOLIC

The church was elaborately decorated with flowers and plants and the effect was very pleasing In the morning at eight o'clock there was a Low Mass at [illegible] at 10.30 o'clock High Mass was sung Rev. E. [illegible] Welsh officiated as celebrant and a sermon on themes suggested by the day was preached by Rev Father McSweeney Grand Musical Vespers were held in the evening The music throughout the day was very effectively and superbly rendered Mr. F. S. Davenport played on the organ in his brilliant style and the singing by the choir of sixteen voices was fine The following is a programme of the music

REFORMERS' MEETING

There was a large audience in City Hall Sunday afternoon at the meeting held by the Reform Club President Ayer conducted the services Mrs. Pickard led the singing and Assistant Chaplain Frost offered prayer President Ayer in his opening remarks spoke encouragingly to the young men and was followed by Vice President Matheson and Messrs Spooner, Stewart, Stiles and Russell of the Club and Mrs. Pitcher of the Crusade, all urging the need of signing the pledge Hon Thomas J. Peakes, of Charleston, spoke earnestly to the young men and in a convincing manner showed them the necessity of letting everything that can intoxicate alone. Rev. Mr. Besse was next called and in a touching manner spoke to the young and described the young men we wanted in all communities to grow up and look back long enough to stem the tide and stand up for the right. The pledge was presented by Vice President Sellen [illegible] Dean who gave many good reasons why all should sign the pledge Many young men signed the pledge at the close of the meeting The music was very fine and appropriate to Easter Sunday, the following selections being rendered "Praise the Lord," "Guide me over, Oh Thou great Jehovah," "Sparkling wine, touch it not," "Turn away from earthly sorrow," "Say No" Much credit is due those having the meeting in charge and the choir in making these meetings so attractive and successful.

Agricultural.

P. H. Wiggin's method of feeding hens: Feed three times a day. In the morning scald and give hot corn meal with bran and middlings, about two-thirds meal; at noon, some kind of cereal grains, and usually corn at night; give about as much as they will eat up, also animal and vegetable food several times a week; keep oyster shells and water always by them; in cold weather give warm water. One of my hen houses is thirty-four feet long, twelve feet wide; front side six feet high, back side three feet high, rafters, front side six feet long, back side eleven feet long, roosts on back side, windows front; ground floor, a walk four feet wide across the middle, which gives a room each side of walk 12x13 feet, hens' nests built in partitions each side of the walk. A house of this size is sufficient for eighty hens, forty in each room.

Farm Hints for April.

It matters but little how busy the farmer may keep through the winter, or how many tasks he may accomplish while the ground is locked by the frost or covered by the snow, he does not usually feel that he is hurried about his operations. There is a pleasant sense of working to pass away the dreary hours of winter, and of doing to-day that which might be put off until to-morrow, which lightens his toil, and as each undertaking is completed, his approving conscience applauds his industry to an extent that goes far toward rewarding him for what he has done, and cheers him on to new efforts. But when the suns and winds of March have melted snow and ice, and the earth begins to be fitted again for cultivation, then does he begin to feel that work is once more hurrying him, and each day finds its appropriate task which must be accomplished, either because it cannot be as well done at some other time, or because the future days will also bring with them their duties.

Those who took opportunity to draw out their manure during the winter upon the snow or frozen ground, probably decided upon the best methods of applying it for different soils and different crops before they did so, or allowed the gain of getting their work done in advance to counterbalance any loss they might expect by the methods of using it before plowing. But to those who have it yet to put upon the land, the question of how to use it is often a serious one, which has been much discussed in farmers' meetings and in agricultural papers. So many conditions influence the results, that careful experiments have failed to furnish a decisive answer to this problem, and only a few facts can be said to be established even by the most careful investigators. For the crops which send their roots downward deep into the soil, it is better to put the manure on before plowing and plow it under. Among these crops may be reckoned potatoes, and nearly all root crops. For corn and other grains, vines of all kinds including peas and beans, it is better to put the manure near the surface, not on the surface, but thoroughly mixed with the three inches of top soil. Yet these rules must be varied by the kind of soil and the condition of the manure. In a study of light soil, which is known to be "leachy," it may give better results if the manure is near the surface than if plowed under, even for the root crops, while in a cold, clay soil, if the manure is well decomposed, it is not well to put it any deeper than the roots naturally penetrate. In such soils the best results will usually be obtained by the plowing under of coarse and unfermented manure, which thus serves two other purposes besides imparting fertility. It lightens up the soil and furnishes a sort of under drainage, and warms it up by the heat developed through fermentation. But if too deeply buried in such soil the process of decomposition is so slow as not to benefit the present season's crop, unless the spring is unusually dry and warm, which this spring does not now promise to be.

The old-fashioned plan of putting "a shovelful of manure in the hill" seems to be abandoned by the most progressive farmers. The results from this practice have too often proved unsatisfactory, and the labor required is so much greater than that required to spread the manure broadcast and plow or harrow it in, that the latter method has been adopted. It necessitates the use of a larger amount per acre to produce a crop, but it also benefits the soil for future crops to a much greater extent. Many have substituted for it the use of artificial fertilizers in the hill, in addition to the manure put on broadcast, and they claim that fertilizers so used are profitable, as they give the crops an earlier start and a more vigorous growth until the roots reach the manure in the soil, and by such forcing insure a larger yield and earlier maturity.

The next question naturally arising in regard to the manure is, how much will it pay to put on? Can we put upon one acre the manure we have been accustomed to put upon two, and thereby double our crops per acre, and save the cultivation of the other acre? Some farmers undoubtedly might do so, but the better class cannot unless they also double the labor and care upon the acre. Where land is worth a high price, as in the suburbs of Boston, liberal manuring and high cultivation are important, but where land is cheap and it is desirous to improve the whole farm, it may be better to cultivate larger tracts and try to make the land better, while at the same time obtaining profitable crops. But if we put on much more manure than crops take out, will not the soil be so much better, and grow good crops for so much longer time, that we shall find the results most profitable in the end? Not necessarily. This also depends upon the character of the soil. In a light soil it may be better to break up and manure slightly at intervals of a few years, while on a good grass land, or on land that is not easy of cultivation, it may be well to put on manure enough to feed the grass for years to come, when the land is being cultivated. The farmer who tills his own land will do well to investigate these questions for himself, by experiments upon his own soil.

If the cows get to pasture before they drop their calves, it will often stimulate the milk glands to such an extent as to fill the udder with milk several days before calving. In such cases the milk should be drawn out at once. Serious injury may result from long continued distention of the udder, which becomes painful, or from the absorption of the milk back into the system, poisoning the blood by the fever it takes with it. The better the animal is a milk producer the greater the danger from this cause, which is one reason why so many of our fancy animals die from milk fever. These causes enfeeble more constitutions than bad breeding or high feeding with stimulating food.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business in your line, and advise others to employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

STATE OF MAINE.
Council Chamber,
Augusta, Mar. [illegible] 1884.
The undersigned, Committee of the Executive Council, appointed in accordance with the following Resolve of the Legislature, approved March 11, 1883, hereby "solicit proposals from cities, towns and individuals as an inducement to the location of a new insane hospital."
"Resolve for the appointment of a committee of the Executive Council to solicit proposals for the location of a new Insane Hospital.
Whereas, The Insane Hospital is now full and overflowing with patients, and has been enlarged from time to time, so that it will soon be necessary to establish another Insane Hospital; therefore,
Resolved, That the governor and council appoint a committee from their own number to solicit proposals from cities, towns and individuals, as an inducement to the location of said hospital, to present plans of said hospital, and an estimate of the cost of the same, to consider the best method for the State to adopt in its construction, and a report of matter legitimately connected therewith, and make a report upon the whole matter to the next legislature, during the first week of its session."
Such "Proposals" sealed, and with the nature of the contents endorsed on envelopes, will be received up to June 20th, 1884, by the Secretary of State, Augusta, Maine.

GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE.
TRADE MARK The Great English Remedy. An unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Impotency, and all Diseases that follow as a sequence of Self-Abuse; as loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, pain in the back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other Diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a premature Grave. TRADE MARK

BEFORE TAKING.
AFTER TAKING.

Beware of advertisements to refund money, when druggists from whom the medicine is bought do not refund, but refer you to the manufacturers, and the requirements are such that they are seldom, if ever, complied with. See their written guarantee. A trial of one single package of Gray's Specific will convince the most skeptical of its real merits.
On account of counterfeits we have adopted the Yellow Wrapper, the only genuine.
Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free by mail to every one. The Specific Medicine is sold by all druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent free by mail on receipt of the money, by addressing THE GRAY MEDICINE CO., Buffalo, New York.
Sold in Bangor by CALDWELL, SWEET & BROS., East Side Drug Store and No. 3 Main Street.
